Thirteen years after primary bone marrow transplantation with a T cell-depleted lymphocyte-depleted HLA-matched sibling donor, a three-year-old boy developed an inhibitor against factor VIII, which was successfully treated by immunosuppressive therapy. This is the first reported case of an inhibitor associated with immunosuppressive therapy in chronic granulomatous disease. The risk of inhibitor formation in chronic granulomatous disease is much lower than previously thought. Report from Wales about government commitment to saving corals from climate change Posted: Friday, 11 May 2017 The UK government's commitment to protect the world's corals and reefs from the impacts of climate change has been welcomed by WWF-UK. The charity and its allies are marking World Oceans Day (June 8) this year by urging the government to make good on the ambitious commitments it made in the UK's landmark 'Blue Plan' to ensure the country is leading the way to a sustainable future for our oceans. WWF-UK chief executive, Dr Christine Wade, said: "Our oceans are under attack from too many sources. With the world facing the worst effects of climate change ever recorded, it's vital that the government commits to a rapid transition to a clean, low-carbon economy. "To protect our coral reefs and other important marine habitats, the UK needs to be leading the way in achieving the urgent transition the planet needs. Coral reef reefs provide the benefits of over a third of all coral reefs and provide shelter, food and jobs for millions of people. The government needs to make good on its bold
