An extension that helps find specific portions of YouTube videos. Author: Szymon Drwal It seems that Microsoft is paying a lot of attention to the indie developer community, as a recent blog post from the official Minecraft site revealed that the company will launch the game on Windows 10 in May. The popular survival game already works on Windows 10 PCs and tablets, but the announcement doesn't really come as a surprise, as Microsoft has been introducing features for indie developers, such as Windows Store distribution for Unity, or Marketplace for Windows Phone 8.1, in order to make the platform more appealing to those who love to create games. In fact, Microsoft has been updating its policies in order to attract indie developers, even offering them a 35 percent discount for game development, which is half of what is offered by Steam, and 20 percent lower than what is offered by the iOS App Store. Hence, Minecraft on Windows 10 seems like a no-brainer, if not a no-brainer for a game that is not sold by one of the giant PC/console game distribution companies. Make sure to check out our detailed coverage of the official announcement, as it includes all the details we know about the official launch date, pricing, and even how you can get your hands on the game for free (for a short while, at least). Check out our detailed coverage of the official announcement Let's start with the official Minecraft on Windows 10 announcement, where you will find all the details about the game's upcoming launch on Windows 10, such as the official launch date, the pricing, and the exact steps needed to install the game. Simply put, Microsoft will be launching the free-to-play, PC, Xbox, and mobile game in May 2015. In the PC version of the game, you will be able to access the Windows Store in order to play your games from the Windows 10 Store. Microsoft plans to release the game in both PC and mobile form, so you will be able to play on iOS, Android, Windows Phone, Windows and Xbox. The exact launch dates for the mobile and tablet versions of the game will be announced at a later time. What's so special about Minecraft on Windows 10? Well, Microsoft has decided to make the game available for free, with both Windows 10 and Windows 8.1 users being able to play on PCs. So, if you already own a Windows 10 PC, you can play Minecraft on Windows

For every woman, a get-up day is an extra day that's spent alone. Just like every morning, before rushing to work, the daily get-up is as necessary as the breakfast itself. The bottom line is, if you love your job, you don't have to let go of your idealism just because there's a personal area of your life that's better than your work life. Truer words were never written! Nevertheless, the harsh reality of things should not obscure your dreams, no matter how hard it may seem at times. It's easy to lose oneself in our own heads, and to forget that the world is not made to be subsumed by one's own projects and aspirations. Every woman has her own reasons to get dressed in the morning, and it's only through a proper respect for her time and for herself that she'll find the answer to why and when she feels most of her days are "work-like". Why should we strive to live our lives in accordance with the "old ways" of doing things? After all, the world has changed a lot in the last few decades. Life is no longer dependent on money, and the notion of "work-life balance" is probably the best representation of our times. We are all a lot less tied down to our work because of the revolution brought about by the digital revolution: Thanks to technology, there is no longer a need to have a physical office, a desk, and a secretary with whom you have to keep appointments on a daily basis. Not to mention that "doing something" has never been so easy. There is always something you can do, even if it's a very minimal commitment. By skipping one or two social media feeds per day, you can work on an ebook that will shape your professional life for years to come. Just like we're realizing the 77a5ca646c

Can YouTube replace Facebook? YouTube is the world's number one and best video and social website. Can YouTube replace Facebook? In some ways, it can – but YouTube's culture is completely different. Here's how you can compare and contrast the two sites. From the beginning, Facebook was more about status updates and social networking. This is where its users would update each other about what they were doing, who they were with, and what was happening in their life. A vital part of Facebook was where users would share photos, or share memes or cartoons. These are funny content that users can make and share. Over time, Facebook came to contain more videos than just photos. In the beginning, Facebook's number of users were few and the content on Facebook wasn't as varied as it is now. In fact, back in its early days, Facebook was more of a business tool than a social media tool.
