Today in class we read Julius Lester's book "Let's talk about races". This book explores the importance of each person's history. My grandmother worked in a factory all her life. As a child, I hated working, and then I discovered that I could do what my parents did. At work, I was able to realize my abilities that were hidden because I was not born with such abilities. I could read and write a book, and now my family passes it on to their children. She travels the world a lot with this book. This study contains elements that you will not find in any textbook. But there are other benefits as well: it includes many specific, practical examples that I learned through research. I learned a lot of new words and learned how they are used. And I found out why these slaves were not getting their due compensation. Students. In the US, 6% of the population are blacks. In the UK - 15% of people. The reason for this phenomenon lies in the fact that in the United States the structure of society is broken. There is racial discrimination in North America. As a result, the US population does not exceed 18 million people. Of the total population, almost 75% are white and 25% are black or Hispanic. Nevertheless, the US is called a "melting pot". There are many racial families in the country. All this leads to the fact that if one child in the family is white, the other is black, then children born from mixed marriages cannot have children in the country. Hence, there are many problems that lead to one or another skin color. The US government is not indifferent to the future of the entire population of the country. The official Supreme Court recognized that every person has the right to self-determination in the choice of sex and race. Therefore, the United States is very much fighting against racism.
