By Jon Gold 0 03/03/2013 01:59:00 PM Rafa and Shaka At the same time as the transfer window was closing last month, it also proved to be the same for Rafa Benitez. The news of Fernando Torres' return to Anfield was the last thing the Spanish manager wanted to hear, and he remained glued to the television at a little hotel near Liverpool's Melwood training ground for the rest of the day as the team prepared for the FA Cup quarter final against Everton. "I always want to see the players in the best form and in the best mood," Benitez says of the moment. "I have never really considered how I react to it. I have always focused on the players, not myself. I never think that this or that will make me happy or sad. I just care about how they are and what they are feeling. At the end of the day, we have had a successful season and we are prepared to go into the last eight." It is the players' performances that are so important for Benitez, and not just because they are the ones carrying the team through the course of a campaign. "The other players don't care about whether we are winning the Champions League or not," he says. "They are focused on whether they are playing well, scoring goals and getting better each day. If they are playing badly and not scoring, that's when you worry. I've always been like that - it is as simple as that. "Of course, it's a special time when the players are involved in the Champions League and the season is more intense. When I was at Inter it was more intense because you
