Hide Your IP Address is a very handy software solution designed to help you stay anonymous while browsing the Internet by changing your IP at a user-defined interval. The interface may seem a bit unprofessional at the first glance, but you need just a few seconds to figure out how to use it. There's a big "Start" button right in the main window, along with information regarding the IP address and the proxy you're using plus the country it belongs to. The bottom of the window is being used to provide access to a bunch of other features, such as the proxy checker which is actually a way to add your very own proxies to the list and use them with Hide Your IP Address. A separate "Hide Privacy" tab is also available, giving you the power to delete browsing information, such as temporary Internet files, types URLs, stored cookies, history, but also to empty Recycle Bin and clear clipboard. While it does a great job changing the proxy in Internet Explorer, Hide Your IP Address also boasts a dedicated feature to use it with Mozilla Firefox. Plus, you can define the interval to automatically change the proxy, but also configure proxy security and speed. Hide Your IP Address doesn't disappoint and works like a charm on all Windows versions, finding fast proxies in a matter of seconds and working just fine on Firefox too.

Hide Your IP Address Features:

- Hide Yourself on the Internet It should be noted that although Hide Your IP Address is designed as a proxy changer, it does much more. It changes your IP address at a predefined interval, in order to change your appearance from time to time and to hide your identity.
- Proxy Sniffer It's a feature you're probably going to love if you want to monitor all the Internet traffic you're making, searching for information. It also includes the possibility to add your own proxies and configure the time interval for the automatic proxy change.
- Hide Privacy Now you can stop the annoying messages appearing when you've been using specific web sites, with the option to delete browsing information, such as temporary Internet files, types URLs, stored cookies, history, but also to empty Recycle Bin and clear clipboard.
- Update Browser The program checks whether the browser you're using is up to date and prompts you to update it if not.
- Proxy Checker With the ability to add your own proxy, the Checker feature enables you to see whether Hide Your IP Address is working on a specific website.
