“We know we can get closer to the game and mirror more of the player’s actions thanks to the data we gathered,” said FIFA 20's Lead Producer for gameplay, Sam Rivera. “This will be even more evident in FIFA 22.” HyperMotion Technology combines player movement data from different sources, in order to deliver more authentic and dynamic player animations. It leverages data gathered from real-life athletes as well as data from the FIFA 19 Development Studio, which has enabled us to further refine our data pipeline. Rivera continued, “We wanted to make sure that we were collecting the right types of data, so it will help players feel the speed of the game, while producing great-looking, amazing gameplay.” FIFA 22 will be available on PS4 October 2. What's new in Fifa 22:

- Hypermotion Technology: Embrace the exhilaration of high-octane gameplay with "HyperMotion Technology," which uses motion capture data from a complete, high-intensity football match played by real players in the FUT game, the official EA Sports FIFA game. With "HyperMotion" for the first time in FIFA franchise history you'll experience real actions at real speed, as you control the ball, and all the game modes.
- "Leaderboard Rivals," VAR Octopus: The Leaderboard Rivals introduced in FIFA 19 is getting a big update. VAR now can pick up matches from your Watchlist, view ongoing matches and use it to get matches that are shown on your TV, such as the world's top players matches. VAR can also now use the 6:00 p.m. ET time slot to update on a TV broadcast if it believes that there is a game changer that may impact a match. If the game fixes a VAR missed call that impacts a result, VAR can now replay the VAR outcome on the field, allowing you to use the VAR outcome for your resulting scores in FUT.
- Live Training Rooms: Create your own training environment in the Live Training Rooms first included in FIFA 15. In this update, you can then share these training rooms with your friends.
- Visual Player Roles and Visual Pass Ratings: Play with more confidence at the touchline. Your new in-game squad selection screen will include a visual representation of how you might set a formation and whether or not your players are actually capable of carrying it out.
- Trophies: Winning a mid-week game gives you the opportunity to earn Trophies for your team. Each week, one player on your team will get a free win every week you have Trophies.
- Editor Controls: Rediscover control with your Foot and shooting controls modified from the console controls in FIFA 20, plus controls that are even more intuitive.
- "Player Intelligence" Feel Your Pass: Feel more powerful and intelligent decisions around the clock with countless new pro-level controls.
- Kick Hazard Tool: Get the upper hand when deciding between an on-the-run shot, a dangerous chip or a powerful free kick. The new Take It To The Cleat feature pulls your player to the ball in a world where no challenge is too big for your player.
- "PrediXtra Boost
