Anthony Rose (solicitor) Anthony Rose (1659–1717) was an English lawyer and politician who sat in the House of Commons from 1713 to 1715. Rose was the son of Henry Rose of Salthouse House, near Newport Pagnell, Buckinghamshire. He was called to the bar at the Inner Temple in 1682 and was a Bencher there in 1702. He was Recorder of Newport Pagnell from 1702 to 1706. Rose was elected Member of Parliament for Newport Pagnell in the 1713 British general election. He voted consistently with the Government. He did not stand in the 1715 British general election. Rose died unmarried at the age of about 62. References crowded school districts in the nation are scrambling to find space for students next school year and beyond. As of August, several districts in Oregon, including the Metz and Milwaukie School Districts, faced the possibility of losing some nonacademic services. Across the country, schools are facing similar dilemmas as they grapple with rising enrollment and the cost of infrastructure like school buses and teacher housing. The Rev. Nathaniel Harper, superintendent of the Metz School District, said the district has already lost 25 percent of its teaching positions to budget cuts in recent years and is looking at cuts of as much as an additional 35 percent for the coming school year. The Metz district is seeking money from the state to protect music, special education, para-educators and other support staff. It also is trying to find a new home for its alternative school. “We are on the threshold of further reductions and cuts in schools,” Harper said. “We don’t know how many people will come back in September or how much we will lose.” Vol. 21,
